

Traditional country setting
with a contemporary twist

Visitors can be comfortably accommodated in the home's separate guest house and the outdoor entertaining area includes a separate pool cabana, an outdoor kitchen, and a fully equipped gymnasium. It's a perfect place for entertaining friends and family on balmy Queensland nights.

The exterior of the home exudes a warm and natural appearance with a rendered finish and extensive use of stone-clad walls and rich timber windows and louvres. The steep 30-degree pitched roofs are tiled with Nu-Lock "slate" roofing.

But the grand and luxurious style of the home comes with a twist: the owner is extremely conscious of the home's carbon footprint and it has been designed to be kind to the environment. Vast underground tanks collect water and the home's solar panels actually put electricity back into the grid.

Brenthall says the house has been named Inspirations as it inspires the imagination and the endless possibilities the company can offer those looking to create their dream home. Stepping inside this home is certainly the stuff of dreams. In seconds you are transported to another world — a Ballnoos paradise and a sanctuary far away from the hustle and bustle of everyday Gold Coast living. The home is set to be one of the biggest and best displays on the Gold Coast and is available for sale on a generous lease back arrangement.
